The Government showed its apchasing and trapping the facts it contains. The Government showed its appreciation of the compliation by presenting to Mr. Hinds a lump sum of $20,000 as a reward for his work, and the book earned for its author still another phrase of approbation—"the most accurate author in the world."

Mr. Hinds began life as a newspaper man. He was born on a farm at Benton, Kennebec county, Maine, February 6, 1863. Was Out for Four Years,

While Hinds was still writing for the Press and other papers as Washington correspondent Mr. Reed in 1889 made him, "Speaker's clerk of the House," a position he held until 1891. The Re-publicans went out of power in 1891 and Mr. Hinds went back to reporting, but after the overwhelming Republican victory of 1894 Mr. Reed again took him in tow and gave him the much more important job of standing by the Speaker's side during sessions so that his expert advice on procedure would al-

There was talk and newspaper disussion nine years ago over the possibility of placing Mr. Hinds in the chair as Speaker of the House, once it had been $1,000 bonds, and shares in the residuray discovered that the purely parliamentarian job of Speaker might be held by one who was not an elected member of the House.
